

SHERIDAN, WYOMING

Howdy %%FIRST:Partner%%

With the popularity of shows like Man v. Wild and Survivorman, men are becoming increasingly interested in getting back to nature and roughing it. For the Bear Grylls experience without the looming threats of starvation and danger, Sheridan, Wyoming is the perfect place to get those soft city hands tough and dirty.

Hunting/Fishing: Whether you're a beginner, advanced fly-fisherman and prefer stream or lake fishing, there are many options. Bighorn Lake is well-known for wall-eye and rainbow trout, while Sibley Lake offers great trout in a tranquil non-motorized boat setting with frequent moose and other enticing wildlife sightings! If you'd rather feel the thrill of the chase, public and private lands around Sheridan are full of birds and big game. From elk and moose to pheasants and turkeys this is a hunter's paradise, just watch out for the black bears. Make sure to get your permits in order before heading out.

Hiking/Camping: Hunting and fishing are only a part of the wilderness experience; navigating trails and finding where to spend the night are equally important. Pull out your map and compass and explore the many trails of Bighorn National Forest and Cloud Park Wilderness. As evening approaches set up camp and fall asleep beneath the stars, breathing the fresh mountain air.

Trail Transportation: If hiking and hunting aren't really your thing, don't worry there are plenty of other adrenaline-filled options here. Rent a mountain bike and descend rocky terrain deep into the Tongue River Canyon or try other amazing trails around the county.

Inner Cowboy: For a pre-planned mancation, stay at a nearby dude ranch. Here, your inner cowboy can let loose as you learn how to rope cattle and ride horses. Ranches also offer access to guided hunts and great fishing on private lands. Generally they are all-inclusive with lodging, food and sometimes fishing/hunting permits taken care of for you.

Head to Sheridan, Wyoming to lose the pampered city slicker and find your inner rugged outdoorsman.
